

A Guide To Spacing Spotlights

Plinth Lights

Spot plinth lights follow slightly different rules to that of under cabinet spotlights. The way that these fittings are planned depends a lot more on the kitchen. Different kitchens will have different layouts, including placement of cupboards doors, handles, drawers and other features.

Where possible it is often effective to place a plinth light at the centre of each cupboard door or drawer. This then lines up with the drawer handle or the centre of the unit and creates a sleek, uniform appearance. If the width of the doors or drawers are not consistent in size then placing plinth lights approximately every 400 – 500mm is best practice, always remembering to work from the corner as a starting point
